Reception Held Later

Whittemore, Lowe Play Concert Here

Whittemore and Lowe, piano team, brought the Community Concerts season to a close Thursday night with an outstandingly successful concert. Guest night brought out a capacity audience in spite of bad weather and the abounding talent and personality of the artists repaid in full measure any inconvenience caused by the rain.

The piano work of the two young men showed coordination and perfection of technique seldom seen, and the measure of their ability was exemplified by the ease with which they pleased their hearers even with modern and contemporary works of sometimes dissonant nature. This part of their program indeed proved so popular that the insistent applause required no less than four encore numbers.

Featured in the first half of the program was a charming and whimsical suite by Bizet called "Childhood Games" that was fine musically as well as good program music. Whittemore and Lowe closed their first group with "Variations on a Theme of Haydn" by Brahms which was ideally suited to the medium of two pianos, and its interwoven intricacies were perfectly handled by the artists.

The members and their guests were invited during intermission to a backstage reception following the concert. Gilbert Jones, president, introduced Mrs. D. P. Dyer, social chairman, who extended the invitation. Mrs. J. W. Watts, Mrs. Oscar DeWolf and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Maag received and directed the guests on the stairs leading to the receiving line, which consisted of Mr. Jones, the two guests of honor, Whittemore and Lowe, Mrs. Dyer, Mrs. E. F. Yancy, Mrs. A. Miles and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carrel.

Presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. Henry Salveter, Mrs. Pinkney Miller, Mrs. E. W. Jones and Mrs. William A. Schien. The two long lace covered tables were decorated with pink tapers in crystal epergnes holding bouquets of pink snapdragons, sweet peas and daisies. Mrs. James Jolly, usher chairman, was assisted by the following ushers in serving: Sheila Isgur, Martha Berlin, Ruth Ann Harrison, Connie Boesch, Kay Burke, Gloria Robb, Cathleen Stohr, Judith Gardner, Mary Beth

Two Men Trapped When Ditch Caves In

ALHAMBRA, Calif. (AP) — Two men were trapped in a cave-in for more than 45 minutes before rescuers, attracted by their screams, dug them out.

The men were in a 15-foot ditch laying pipelines when the banks caved in.

Brewster Has This to Say On the Stand

Pleads Innocence
After Arraignment
For Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank W. Brewster, West Coast Teamsters kingpin, said today he personally disapproved of the unions national president, Dave Beck, borrowing several hundred thousand dollars in union funds without interest or security.

Brewster gave this view on the witness stand of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee.

Beck has said that he borrowed $300,000 to $400,000 of union funds without paying interest or offering security, but has repaid the money.

Brewster came before the senators from U. S. District Court where he was arraigned on charges of contempt of Congress and entered a plea of innocent.

The charge grew out of his refusal to answer questions at an earlier Senate inquiry.

Brewster was asked about the Beck borrowings from the Teamsters during questioning about his own borrowing of some $90,000 to

Ocean Liners Enter Port Without Help

Mediators Try To Avert Scheduled
Allied Walkout

LONDON (AP) — Ocean liners steamed into the vast port of Southampton today and berthed without tugs or mooring crews in a growing "beat the strike" campaign.

Government mediators, meanwhile, intensified a last ditch attempt to crack a nationwide shipyard strike and head off an allied walkout of 2½ million industrial workers scheduled to start at noon tomorrow.

There were signs that Britain's other major strike threat, to the state-run railway system, might be averted by a wage compromise.

Southampton's tug operators and mooring men first blacklisted the Queen Mary after the shipyard strikers charged the Cunard Line had taken the big ship unfinished from a strike-idled repair yard.

The strike was ordered throughout the port when navy tugs helped the liner sail for America early yesterday.

Helped by perfect weather, the 27,000-ton Capetown Castle eased into the Southampton quay with 600 passengers from South Africa.

A little later the 6,269-ton Norwegian cruise ship Venus repeated the operation to the applause and cheers of passengers on deck.

Other liners, including the 26,000-ton America, were expected to do the same when they arrive in the next day or two.

Labor Ministry peacemakers seeking to bring together shipyard owners and leaders of the 200,000 strikers reported "some progress."

A settlement with the shipyard men would set the pattern for agreement with the engineering workers, who belong to the same confederation of unions. The engineers are due to start out tomorrow. The men are demanding a 10 per cent wage increase.

Would Help Atomic Power

President Calls Top Advisors For Plans On British Aid

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP) — President Eisenhower called in his top military and diplomatic advisers today to shape plans for assuring Prime Minister Macmillan that the United States will help Britain develop a streamlined army with atomic striking power.

The President and Macmillan turned to the problem of bolstering Britain's atomic military might after reaching what was called here a "gratifying measure of agreement" on the whole range of Middle East problems.

Officials said the military issues boil down to how much Britain is going to cut its forces and what can be done to increase the power of those remaining in uniform by providing them with atomic weapons.

Eisenhower was expected to assure Macmillan of U.S. help in developing a mightier force with fewer men under arms.

After four hours of negotiations in two sessions on the Middle East, spokesmen for the President and Prime Minister announced they had discovered a "gratifying measure of agreement."

U.S. officials stressed, however, that for the moment the United States is backing U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld fully in his Cairo talks with Egyptian President Nasser and that no final decision will be made until Hammarskjöld has reported to the United Nations.

The Middle East ground covered in yesterday's opening sessions of the Big Two Bermuda meeting included consideration of a suggested formula for resolving the immediate problem of the Gaza Strip by getting U.N. Emergency Force troops spotted at key points on both sides of the Israeli-Gaza border. The plan also would make the U.N. force responsible for security inside the strip, with Egypt retaining civilian administration of the area.

Israel has in the past refused to agree to proposals for putting U.N. troops on its soil and has said the way must not be left open for Egypt to use Gaza again as a base for raids into Israel.

The two leaders also agreed a joint committee of experts would study a British proposal for promoting construction of an Iraq-Iran-Turkey pipeline, with the prime purpose of lessening the dependence of oil producing and consuming countries on the Suez Canal. The plan envisages a U.S.-British treaty with those three Middle East countries to guarantee permanent freedom of movement of oil from the area.

Also discussed were steps which may have to be taken in regard to the payment of Suez Canal tolls, a prime issue in the Hammarskjöld-Nasser talks. Western nations using the canal had proposed that half the canal tolls be paid to an international agency for development and maintenance of the waterway. Nasser replied Egypt demand all the money but might be willing to put some of it into a development fund.

The new rulings announced today extend liberalizations that he made in 1953. They become effective next Monday.

The Pope now gives Roman Catholic bishops the right to celebrate evening Mass daily "so long as it is required for the spiritual welfare of a considerable number of people."

The 1953 liberalization permitted evening Mass on a limited basis, and on a sort of trial period. The practice proved successful.

The new rules require priests and Roman Catholics to abstain only three hours from solid food and alcoholic drinks before attending Mass and receiving Holy Communion.

In the past, the fast was ordinarily observed from midnight of the day on which communion was to be received. Some modifications made in that rule in 1953 are now extended and made general.

According to the new regulations, nonalcoholic drinks may be taken up to an hour before receiving communion and water may be taken at any time.

Those who are sick, even though they may not be confined to bed, may take nonalcoholic beverages as well as medicines and solid foods at any time before receiving communion.

The three-hour fast from solid foods and alcoholic drinks required for those who are well must also be observed in the case of midnight Mass—most frequently celebrated at Christmas and sometimes at Easter.

Air-Sea Hunt For Airplane

Hopes Dim As Vast Search Continues; 67 Were Aboard

TOKYO (AP)—One of the greatest air-sea searches the Far East has ever seen swung into its second day today for 67 Americans on a U.S. military transport plane which disappeared just before reaching Japan.

More than 70 planes and about a dozen Japanese and American ships were poised to criss-cross thousands of square miles of the Pacific ocean southeast of Japan. Cloudy skies and rain squalls which limited visibility yesterday gave promise of lifting.

Hope dimmed after the first day's search failed to find the plane or survivors in the 120-mile wide corridor stretching 300 miles southeast of Tokyo where the plane was believed to have gone down.

The search area was to be expanded today to cover approximately 75,000 square miles.

Some Japanese aviation experts speculated the plane might have crashed on one of a chain of volcanic islands southeast of Tokyo.

The four-engine C-97, military version of the Boeing Stratocruiser, left Wake Island yesterday afternoon for Tokyo on the last leg of a flight from Travis Air Force Base near San Francisco, Calif.

The Air Force said 57 passengers and a crew of 10 were aboard the plane, with the passengers including 27 Air Force personnel; 17 Army and 10 Navy men; 2 civilian government employees, both men; and a woman military dependent, presumably the wife of a serviceman stationed in Japan.

The crew, which included at least one woman, all were members of the Air Force. The plane was operated by the Military Air Transport Service (MATS).

The plane's last reported position was 200 miles southeast of the big MATS terminal in Tokyo, at 12:15 a.m. (10:15 a.m., EST, Thursday). The radio report gave no indication of any trouble and the plane was expected in Tokyo on schedule, two hours later.

The seven were involved in three robberies of Fidelity Safe Co. On one occasion $118 in cash and some beer was stolen, and on the other two occasions two cases of beer were taken each time.

Since it was the first time any of the youths had been in serious trouble, no charges were filed but they were warned the same as the youths who appeared before Judge Hoffman on Wednesday that they would be placed under jurisdiction of the juvenile court on the next offense.

In his lecture to the youths and their parents, in the circuit courtroom of the courthouse, Prosecuting Attorney Barrick said that the youths and parents owe a duty to each other. He said that it is the duty of the parents to discipline and that it is the duty of the boys to have respect for their parents and other people's property.

Barrick called attention to the lack of parental supervision and told the parents that they should know where the boys are and who they are with.

The point was emphasized by the fact that one boy's parents failed to show up in court. The father of the boy was found and brought in by Sheriff John Taylor as the hearing was nearing an end.

At this point Barrick turned to the father and told him that it was his duty to be in court with his boy and that he had shirked his duty.

Te parents were told that they must maintain close supervision of the boys and that further supervision would be given by Cecil Glenn, juvenile officer, and another party who had expressed interest in helping the boys. Barrick told the boys that a set of rules would be laid down by these two men and that they must be followed to the letter.

He also told the boys that restitution must be made for the money and beer that was stolen.

Docking Cites Katy Move To Commission

Sees Violation
Of ICC Regulations;
Wants Inquiry Made

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Gov. George Docking today called the Kansas Corporation Commission's attention to litigation now pending between the state and the Missouri, Kansas, Texas Railroad Co.

The company has been ordered to show cause by April 30 as to why it should not be permanently enjoined from violating a 1923 agreement to maintain certain offices and shops in Parsons, Kan.

In a letter to Marion Beatty, KCC chairman, Docking called attention to an agreement apparently entered into by the railroad and the state in regard to maintaining permanently certain offices and a certain level of employment at Parsons.

The railroad reportedly has fired several hundred employees at Parsons and has indicated it plans to shift some of its operations at Parsons to Texas.

"As a result of this situation," Docking wrote Beatty, "I am informed that there have been violations of ICC minimum requirements and regulations. I request that you bring this situation to the attention of the Interstate Commerce Commission with the object in mind that they conduct a proper investigation of the matter."

The president of the Katy Railroad informed Atty. Gen. John Anderson yesterday he thinks his company is "entirely justified" in ordering a reduction in its forces at Parsons.

W. N. Deramus III, in a letter to Anderson, said: "I wish to state it is our sincere belief that we are entirely justified in pursuing the course we have taken."

Anderson earlier this week obtained a court order prohibiting the company from moving certain records from offices it maintains at Parsons.

Under the order the railroad must show by April 30 why it should not be permanently enjoined from violating a 1923 agreement concerning employment of office personnel, and shop forces in Parsons. The agreement was made with the Kansas Public Utilities Commission, forerunner of the present state corporation commission.

Deramus' letter was in reply to a query mailed by Anderson last week about the status of the 1923 agreement.

Rice-Stix Will Cease Operation
In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Rice-Stix Inc., a 78-year-old wholesale dry goods firm with an annual payroll of more than one million dollars, will discontinue its operations in St. Louis and within 90 days move its offices to New York.

This was announced yesterday by Albert T. Bard, president of the firm. It has 290 employees here.

"We are doing whatever we can to find new positions for the employees," Bard said.

The company described the move as "part of management's plan to concentrate on the more profitable lines of its business."

Bard said this means that warehousing operations will be discontinued, at least in St. Louis, and goods will be shipped directly to customers from mills and factories.

Reliance Manufacturing Co. and Safie Bros. Co., both of New York, which acquired control of Rice-Stix two years ago, made the decision to move. Rice-Stix manufacturing operations were terminated last November when the new owners ordered sale of the factories to Reliance.

At the time of its sale Rice-Stix operated 18 factories in Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas and Mississippi.

Weber Is Sworn In As Eastern Judge

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Randolph H. Weber of Poplar Bluff was sworn in today—after a brief search for the oath of office—as a federal judge for the Eastern District of Missouri.

Walk-Wait Traffic Lights

An unwritten law in the motorists' code is becoming written in many communities—the rule that a pedestrian always has the right-of-way.

Among the most recent is Columbia whose city council approved a new ordinance giving pedestrians crossing with a traffic signal the right-of-way over all vehicles. This is part of a campaign for better observance of traffic laws, and also penalizes pedestrians who walk against the red light even though there is no traffic at the intersection.

Columbia is also trying out walk-wait indicators on new traffic signals, something with which Sedalia visitors to the university city should become familiar.

Sedalia has neither walk-wait indicators nor the amount of motor and pedestrian traffic afflicting Columbia. Two spots where walk lights might be used effectively here are at Third and Ohio and Broadway and Ohio.

Frequently noticeable at these two intersections is confusion of pedestrians moving with the green who encounter motor traffic making a right turn. If there is a long string of pedestrian movement, the motorist advancing on a right turn must stop at half turn blocking traffic behind him. Sometimes pedestrians who started to cross the street let the motorist advance, and are themselves caught in the middle of the street blocking traffic ready to move on the green light.

At times it all becomes pretty complex, but traffic analysts may prove that inconvenience and possible hazard is not of enough frequent occurrence to warrant installation of walk-wait indicators.

And who wants to wait on their walk for an indicator to tell them what to do when there is not a car in movement in either direction at the intersection?

Somehow Sedalians and Central Missouri shoppers have muddled through the situation at our crossings without physical casualties. However there has been no accounting of mental anguish, dirty looks and muffled verbal pyrotechnics.

Perhaps Sedalia's Citizens Traffic Advisory Commission might review the downtown situation and give a news report of current activities if it be no more than reassurance that our community's motor and pedestrian traffic is eligible for a good conduct award.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Ike Relations With British Once Rosy

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower can look back on a long period of ups and downs in British relations as he confers with Prime Minister MacMillan in Bermuda. He can look back to the summer of 1944 when he lived in a pleasant headquarters camp outside London and spent long hours planning the invasion of Normandy. He can look back, too, to the crowds in the streets of London giving him a hero's welcome as he came back from the wars—Londoners standing for hours to get a glimpse of the man who ran the Nazis out of Europe—standing on the Guildhall balcony beside crusty, unsmiling Winston Churchill, promising that the United States and England would build for peace together, forever. . . . And he can look back to pleasant trips to Scotland for grouse shooting after the war when he was stationed in Germany. The Scots even gave him part of a castle where he could relax any time he wanted—a gift for life from the grateful people of Scotland. . . . And he can look back at the day when he marched with other cap-and-gown dignitaries to receive an honorary degree from ancient Oxford University; and to a myriad other pleasant associations with a country grateful to a soldier.

Ike and Churchill—Came the day when Eisenhower was about to become President of the United States. He began to receive little chits from his old friend Winston Churchill—also transatlantic phone calls. Churchill had kept up a steady stream of correspondence across the Atlantic with Franklin Roosevelt. Winning the war became a sort of partnership, a joint enterprise between them. Never had the Anglo-American alliance been firmer. . . . Relations simmered a bit under Truman and Attlee. Prime Minister Attlee, a Laborite, didn't camp out in the White House with the Trumans the way Churchill had clumped up and down White House upstairs corridors in his bedroom slippers, his crimson and gold kimono half-draped around his nude and cherubic torso. . . . So with Ike about to enter the White House, Churchill expected the cozy relations of war days to resume. He was so eager that he insisted on coming to see Ike two weeks before he was sworn in as President. The new President-elect was cordial, but the relationship was different from those Halcyon hero days right after the war. Churchill was no longer giving suggestions to a military man. He was talking to a President of the United States. This time Ike was on his own. . . . Also the grand old man of England was pushing 80 and getting quite deaf. It was a strain to talk to him.

The First Bermuda Conference—Churchill had a great ambition—to hold a Big 3 conference with Soviet Russia—to patch up the peace of the world. The new President didn't like the idea, but Churchill kept hammering it home, until finally he induced Ike to meet him again in Bermuda in December, 1953, for further discussions. . . . Ike will be looking back on that too as he meets this week with another Prime Minister of England. But one thing he may not have known was that when he, Eisenhower, departed Bermuda he left his old friend in tears. . . . Churchill had planned a dramatic session which he would dominate. The President cut short that session abruptly, flew to New York to address the United Nations on atomic peace. It took the headlines completely away from his old wartime friend, the fading, aging Prime Minister of England.

Broken Eden—There are other things Ike will be looking back on as he meets once again in Bermuda to consider the badly ruptured Anglo-American alliance. He can look back on the night of November 5 last year, one night before the election, when he telephoned another Prime Minister of England and told Sir Anthony Eden to get his troops out of Suez. . . . It was reported in London that he had used barracks-room language—a report denied by the White House. The fact was that he did. He spoke to the Prime Minister as the executive of one country seldom speaks to another. . . . Eden was sick at the time. Within two minutes he had called Premier Mollet in Paris and told him England was withdrawing. Mollet tried to argue. But Eden was a broken, beaten man. . . . At the cabinet meeting which followed, he collapsed. It began the end of his brief term as Prime Minister of England, an office for which he had studied, trained, and coveted for half a lifetime.

All these things figure in the background of Bermuda. For treaties and alliances are not made of ribboned parchment. They are built on human relations—the respect of leaders for each other, the friendship of peoples for each other, the cultural exchanges between one country and another. . . . What the newspapers of one country say about another help to build or break alliances more than the way diplomats raise their glasses to toast each other. What presidents take offense at, what irks prime ministers, can affect alliances more than treaties. . . . Today the climate for alliances is not too good. . . . There was a day when the American public talked about a fading Churchill. Today the British press talks about the fading Eisenhower. . . . "I have to report a well-loved man is slowly fading," cabled Rene Mac Coll from New York to Lord Beaverbrook's potent London Express. "The picture has changed," he cabled in three-column headlines. "The legend is becoming blurred. The hero is proved fallible. Grumbles are replacing the cheers."

That is the setting in which the two most important leaders of the free world negotiate to try to continue a partnership pledged to keep the world free.

Guest Editorial—

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) POST-HERALD: Unprotected Highways. — "Evils lurk in every foot of frontage, every acre of land" along the 41,000 miles of superhighways about to be built in the United States, says Robert Moses.

The evil lies in the fact that these new wonder roads are "entirely unprotected against signs and billboards."

Mr. Moses knows what he is talking about. In his 43 years of public service he has become familiar with the hideous highways of the congested urban areas of America. As head of the New York State park system he has worked to preserve the beauties of parks and parkways.

He recommends that signs be forbidden within 500 feet of the right of way on the new American highways. Also that the states be authorized to require even wider clearance on roads within their borders.

The act which authorizes a $50 billion outlay on this vast project must be amended. There is no protection at all in the law as it stands.

Unless the law is amended, says Mr. Moses, "we face the prospect of speedways built in gasoline gullies, obliterating scenery and confined between continuous rows of offensive advertising."

Virginia and North Carolina with their Blue-Ridge Parkway, New York, Maryland and Ohio have been able to protect their scenic highways to some extent, largely through the tireless efforts of men like Mr. Moses.

Congress must act to preserve a view of America the beautiful along this sweeping new highway network.

Modern Explorer

Americans can be deeply proud that almost to the end of his richly fruitful life Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd actively searched out the world's unknown corners.

He was the first man in history to fly over both the North and South poles. He was in the third plane which crossed the Atlantic nonstop from west to east. After a flight packed with danger and difficulty, he crash-landed the aircraft on the French coast in a storm.

His famous expeditions to the Antarctic put America in the vanguard of exploration in a vast uncharted area. His management of these was masterly, a triumph of superb organization. His and his colleagues' findings contributed mightily to the world's knowledge of the great polar continent.

Last year he was down there again, heading the preparatory force making ready for American contribution to the International Geophysical Year of 1957-58.

Luckily for him, Byrd gained ample recognition for his relentless pursuit of the unknown. He was a handsome symbol of the tireless spirit of adventure that Americans like to think is theirs in bountiful quantity.

In the long, unfolding story of man's quest for knowledge of the earth, a big chapter must be reserved for the purposeful wanderings of Richard E. Byrd.

The true buffalo is a native of India, where he was domesticated. The American variety is a bison.

Suez Isn't the Only Salvage Area

The World Today

Cash Counts; It May Hold Nasser Back

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — Cash counts. Because it does, there should be a point beyond which Egyptian President Nasser can't go—inside or outside Egypt—in creation of crises.

For example: How many more times can King Saud of Saudi Arabia let Nasser get him into a mess that costs him money?

So far Nasser's fellow Arabs in the Middle East have stood beside him for several reasons: their common hatred of the Jews of Israel; their own new nationalism; and the realization of the strength in unity.

But to Saud cash counts, and he counts his cash: 300 million dollars a year from American companies for the oil they take from his kingdom.

The power from this money helps keep him on the throne. The money goes to him, not to the Saudi Arabian people.

But Nasser's tactics have cost Saud money. Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal led to the British-French-Israeli invasion of Egypt and the canal's closing.

Oil tankers from Arabia, no longer able to make the fast trip to the Mediterranean through Suez, have had to take the long trip around Africa.

The canal is still closed. Saud's moral support has been a help to Nasser, but the Egyptian has brought Saud nothing but trouble. Saud's interests lie more with the West than with Nasser. He needs Western money just as the West needs his oil. The West is his only market.

Russia doesn't need his oil. And getting cozy with the Communists will do him no good. He knows he wouldn't last long if he got a grip on Saudi Arabia.

So although publicly Saud has gone along with Nasser, privately he probably hates him.

Nasser is beginning to push again. He'll no doubt keep on pushing where he can, just short of new explosions.

Trouble is, he can never be sure when he'll push too hard and blow the lid off, causing a new canal closing and even a new Middle Eastern war.

Somewhere along the line of Nasser's pushing, Saud may feel it time to say goodbye. Nasser can't stand too many desertions from his Arab

The West, particularly the United States, has to have a showdown sometime. It can't go on being Nasser's patsy forever.

One encouragement to Arabs not to go along with Nasser is the new American program of aid — military and economic — meaning dollars — for the Middle East.

But there's also a question of how many new crises, including a new war, the Egyptian people can take.

So far Nasser has been a sheer rabble-rousing opportunist appealing to pan-Arabism, anti-semitism, Arab nationalism, anticommunism.

But the big gap in all he's done has been the lack of any real social program for the betterment of his own people.

He's given them excitement, a new sense of pride in defying the West, and perhaps even a sense of destiny. But they can't eat those things.

Unless Nasser can give the Egyptians something more solid for themselves, the time should come, if he leads them into new disaster, when they're fed up with him.

Nasser may have an ace in the hole: promises of help from Russia if he gets in too deep. He already has tieups with them.

It might explain a lot to know when Nasser began his relations with the Russian Communists: before or after he came to power.

One thing is certain: he's helped the Russians with his tactics.

Dr. Jordan Answers

Disease Germs Survive Freezing; Boil Water

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

In almost all municipalities steps are taken to make sure that the water supply is safe for drinking. This, however, is not always the case elsewhere, even in North America.

Q—I have been boiling all our drinking water for some time as the water from my well tests five per cent bad. Some of my relatives and friends say that it is unnecessary to boil water for ice cubes as the freezing would kill all the germs. What do you think? — Mrs. B. T.

A—I do not know exactly what five per cent bad means. But I will presume it means that your well water is contaminated with germs which could be dangerous to health. Until such time as safer water is obtained, boiling is the best procedure since this destroys disease germs. Experiments made years ago have shown that some disease germs can remain alive, and therefore hazardous, in ice for some time. Therefore the water to go into ice cubes should be boiled as well.

Q—I am suffering with what is called Weaver's Seat. Could you advise? — E. M.

A—Weaver's Seat or Weaver's Bottom, is a chronic bursitis on the location indicated and occurring principally in people whose occupations necessitate prolonged sitting on hard surfaces. Pain over the bursa near the bone is constant and may extend down the back of the thigh. In mild cases, heat and rest usually result in relief. Injections of a local anesthetic are sometimes used. But in persistent pain, the bursa has to be removed by surgery.

Q—Would you please explain the following: My mother died a few weeks ago and on the death certificate the cause was given as coronary thrombosis—six hours—and hypertensive heart disease—five years. She was sick only such a short time I still can't understand it. — Mrs. C. D.

A—I am sorry to hear of the loss of your mother. The death certificate indicates that she had been suffering from high blood pressure for several years, but that her final illness was a clot in one of the blood vessels supplying the heart muscle. This is known as coronary thrombosis, or occlusion.

Q—I am 56 years old and have high blood pressure. At the age of 53 I ceased menstruating and then a couple of weeks ago I suddenly began hemorrhaging quite profusely and this has happened again since. I feel my blood pressure must have dropped, but wonder if there could be a tumor which could eventually turn to cancer? — Reader.

A—Loss of blood will usually bring down the blood pressure. However, what is important is that there has been abnormal bleeding. This could be a sign of something seriously wrong, so you should not delay in obtaining medical advice.

Q—I am a sophomore in high school. I have lumps in each of my ear lobes and pus comes from them. This started three years ago. Can you explain it? — R. A.

A—This sounds like a chronic infection. It seems likely that you will have to have treatment by surgery.

Court Fight Develops Over TV Channel 2

ST. LOUIS — A court fight is in prospect over television channel 2 recently transferred to St. Louis from Springfield, Ill.

Seeking the very high frequency channel are station KTVI and a group headed by Lon Hocker, St. Louis lawyer an unsuccessful Republican candidate for governor.

Hocker said he planned to ask the U. S. Court of Appeals in Washington today for an order directing the Federal Communications Commission to hold up permission for station KTVI to operate temporarily on channel 2.

Station KTVI suspended operations at midnight last night to be ready to start temporary operations on channel 2 by April 15.

That Old Ike Bandwagon Is Forsaken and Rusting

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON — "Now is the time for all good Republicans to come to the aid of their President."

It's a trite line. But just try to catch any of them doing it. Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks made a defense of "Modern Republicanism" before the Women's National Republican Club in New York the other day.

And the President's economic adviser, Dr. Gabriel Hauge, told the Detroit Economic Club that the administration's goal of prosperity with price stability is not unattainable.

But that's about it.

The more fashionable line now is to follow the lead of Treasury Secretary George Humphrey, who said last January that if government spending wasn't cut, there'd be a hair-curling depression.

The record of the 85th Congress to date, showing little effort to enact the Eisenhower program for a greater America, speaks eloquently for itself.

Gone are the slogans of six and nine months ago, about what a great guy Ike was and how only he could lead everyone to peace, prosperity and progress.

Forgotten are the Eisenhower campaign speeches in which he told specifically just what he proposed to do to build a greater America.

Politicians and people don't pay as much attention to his ideas now. He is a candidate who can't run again. He is a sick man. And if he isn't disillusioned, he could be.

You get none of the hoop-la, all-out, "Let's support the President" from the Republican National Committee, now.

You get statements from the White House that the President is giving "warmhearted support" to new GOP National Chairman Meade ALCORN's plan for a series of regional, state and local conferences to plan for the 1956 congressional elections.

But you get no "warmhearted support" of the President's program from Chairman ALCORN.

You get statements like these: "We're going back to the grass roots to find out what people think. . . . There will be no effort to muzzle anyone. . . . No one is embarking on any purge" (of anti-Eisenhower Republicans).

Reminded that the President had declared some people were a drag on his program, ALCORN declared that the National Committee would not move into any state or district and tell it not to renominate an incumbent congressman running for re-election. On the contrary, any candidate who could get the nomination was entitled to the party's support.

Were Eisenhower candidates more attractive than others? ALCORN said he couldn't answer that. And he said it would be up to the White House to announce what candidates it would support.

It may be recalled here that before last November's elections, candidates were lining up to have their pictures taken with the President to show what good Ike-men they were.

Self-styled "progressive Republicans" who last year would have given you an argument if you had cited their records to show that they were not loyal Ike-men, now say openly that they are disappointed in the President's behavior since inauguration.

The bloom is off that last rose of last summer now. And the Republican politicians are ready to drop him like a faded flower, though he saved them from defeat twice, and they know it.

$90,000 from the Western Conference of Teamsters and Seattle Local No. 174.

Brewster is chairman of the Western Conference, a job to which he was appointed by Beck, and also is one of a number of Teamsters Union vice presidents under Beck.

Arraigned with Brewster, and also pleading innocent was Einar O. Mohn, executive vice president of the teamsters.

Two lesser union officials also were scheduled for arraignment. One showed up and the other didn't. Nugent La Poma, secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 174 in Seattle, Wash., pleaded innocent. Harry Reiss, welfare fund administrator of Local 227 in New York, failed to answer when his name was called.

Brewster, West Coast teamsters official, said he is pleading innocent at his arraignment on a contempt of Congress indictment stemming from his refusal to answer questions in a prior Senate probe. Einar O. Mohn, the union's executive vice president, faces arraignment on a similar charge.

Brewster's fifth day on the witness stand was delayed an hour to permit his court appearance.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said, meanwhile, the committee planned an executive session this afternoon to hear from Paul Dorfman, secretary of a Chicago Waste Handlers Union, and Allen Dorfman, Paul's son, an insurance executive.

The Dorfmans have been quizzed in earlier congressional probes into labor union affairs.

Allen Dorfman is a partner in a Michigan boys camp with James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union vice president under indictment on charges of bribing a staff member of the Senate committee.

Allen Dorfman's insurance agency handles a big chunk of labor union insurance and welfare plan business in the Midwest.

Paul Dorfman's operations in the Chicago Waste Handlers Union are under an investigation ordered by AFL-CIO President George Meany.

The special committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) hoped to wind up by nightfall its hearings on allegations that (A) Brewster improperly used large sums of union funds as his own, and (B) that Brewster and Seattle, Wash., hoodlums "muscle in" on profitable rackets in Portland, Ore.

Brewster said yesterday the late John J. Sweeney, former secretary of the Western Conference of Teamsters, actually issued many of the union checks which bore both men's signatures. He said he signed groups of checks in advance and was not responsible for what the committee said was unusual handling of union funds from which Brewster and his friends benefited.

But he said he will see that the union is repaid for "every dime" of its funds used to help finance his racing stables and pay other personal bills, and that he may make restitution for money that went to others who, the committee says, had no right to it.

Sunday School Lesson Notes:

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

We are all familiar with the hymn for little children, "Gentle Jesus, meek and mild: Look upon a little child."

It is an aspect of the Christ in the Gospels, and I am not sure whether it is not the dominant aspect of the Man of Galilee. It is Jesus blessing the little child.

"Come Thou with us and we will do Thee good"

It is the sympathetic Saviour weeping with Mary and Martha at the death of Lazarus.

It is the Good Shepherd leading the sheep by green pastures, but in a sterner, less pastoral scene seeking the lost sheep "far on the mountain cold and drear," and willing even to give His life for the sheep. We would not be true to the Gospels if we did not know, and love, that gentle Christ.

But there are other aspects of the Master, far from gentle, and as firmly set in the Gospel records. We are familiar with the angry Christ driving the money-changers from the Temple; there is the courageous, dominant Christ, confident in the truth of His words and deeds, daring to assert His own authority against those who asked Him, "By what authority doest thou these things?" and to pursue His mission in spite of those who harassed Him to His death.

And, perhaps as opposed to gentleness and strangeness of all, is the Christ of the "woes" (Matthew 23:13-39), hurling His denunciations of hypocrisy against the ostensibly strong and great.

In His denunciations Jesus went beyond John the Baptist, in whom there seemed to be all sternness and little gentleness. John indicated a generation, "a generation of vipers." It was general; but Jesus was very specific. He attacked the outwardly great and strong, the professed leaders of the generation that John assailed.

A qualifying word ought to be said regarding the Pharisees whose hypocrisy Jesus attacked. It was precisely because they were Pharisees that He found them wanting. The Pharisees historically were the devout and intense believers in Israel. They had formerly suffered terrible persecution for their faith, 800 of them having been crucified in one day. (See page 54 of the "Helps" in Bagster's Teachers Bible.)

In the Parable of the Publican and the Pharisee Jesus did not mean to imply that a Publican was better than a Pharisee, or that Publicans were better than Pharisees.

What He meant was that a Publican humbly seeking God's mercy was justified in contrast with a Pharisee in his arrogant spiritual pride boasting of what he was. Similarly, Jesus did not exalt Samaritans above His fellow Jews.

What He did was to contrast the goodness of a despised Samaritan, ministering to a stricken man, with the utter failure of the Priest and Levite who passed by a man in need.

What Jesus asserted was reality rather than profession. He attacked the Scribes, not for what they were, but for what they were not. They "sat in Moses' seat," and Jesus upheld the spiritual authority of the Law and the Prophets. He specifically asserted that He had come not to destroy, but to fulfill. But He stressed the spirit, not the letter; the truth concerning God, not the formalism of men.

One cannot contemplate the denunciations of Jesus without wondering what would be His attitude toward those who sit in the seats of authority today. The contrast between what we call Christendom and the faith, life, and ideals of the Christianity upon which Christendom is ostensibly founded is obviously extreme.

I think it may be said that in general a great complacency marks the Christian world in contrast with which the spirit of Christ might well make a searching criticism more useful and profitable.

Nixon Asserts Arab Refugees Key to Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nixon, back from a 22-day good will tour of Africa, is expected to urge strong American efforts to solve the Arab refugee problem.

Nixon returned yesterday with a 20,000-mile flying trip which took him to eight nations. He was tired and suffering from a head cold. But he perked up when he and his wife received an affectionate airport greeting from their two daughters, Patricia, 10, and Julie, 8.

After alighting from the big Air Force plane that brought him home, Nixon said he was "overwhelmed with friendship" in all the lands he visited.

But remarks he made to reporters during the 23-hour flight to Washington showed he regarded the refugee problem as of primary importance to any solution of the Middle East dilemma.

The question of the 900,000 Arab refugees from Palestine arose again and again in the Arab countries he visited in Africa.

Nixon told newsmen the refugee problem is "more important than I had anticipated" in connection with what he termed the "cancer" of the Arab-Israeli dispute.

"We must face up to the fact that there is no Middle East solution which does not handle the refugee problem . . .," he said. "We must devote every effort to finding a more satisfactory solution."

Although Nixon did not specify what steps should be taken he indicated clearly he believes the American government must take the lead in drafting a plan, possibly including the donation of large funds to resettle the refugees.

The refugees, who left Palestine during the Arab-Israeli fighting have been living on bare subsistence in camps in the Gaza Strip, Jordan, Lebanon and Syria. The United Nations Relief Fund has been feeding and housing them for the past seven years. Arab governments have been demanding that they be allowed to return to their former homes, but Israel refuses to accept them.

On other matters, Nixon said Africa in the next 25 years will be a decisive battleground in the East-West struggle. Thus, he said a "higher priority" of importance must be assigned to that area.

He called for stationing of more and better trained U.S. diplomats there, for expanded U. S. Information Agency activity in the region, and a broadened program for bringing African leaders and students to America for training and get-acquainted visits.

Nixon professed to see some fall-off in the prestige of Egyptian President Nasser in nations around Egypt. He said he believed none of the nations in Arab Africa will surrender to Nasser or anybody else their newly won independence.

Young African Plans To Build Hospital In His Native Land

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A young African who arrived here six years ago with 3 cents announced plans today to establish the first all-native hospital on the Dark Continent.

He hasn't got the money. But he has overcome one obstacle after another to go through Stanford University Medical School and to win the moral support of several prominent Americans, including Dr. Ralph Bunche, U.N. undersecretary, and Chester Bowles, former U.S. economic stabilizer.

This persistent young man is Mungai Njoroga, born 30 years ago near Nairobi, Kenya, East Africa. Mungai will get his M.D. degree in June and will intern for a year. Then he will be ready to begin work on his lifetime ambition.

Legislator's Eyes Bring About New Law

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Ever wonder what inspires a law? Assemblyman S. C. Masterson told his colleagues his eyes aren't as good as they used to be.

He said he recently found the type on a conditional sales contract too small and had to get his law partner to read it.

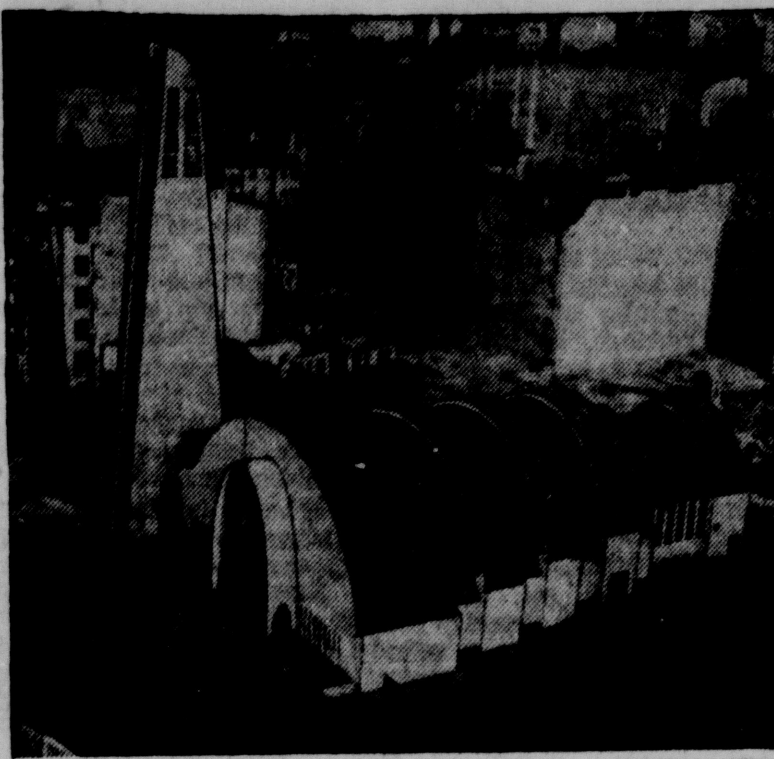

The Assembly then passed Masterson's bill to require type on such documents to be at least six point in size—about the size usually found in newspaper classified ads.

Woman's Perogative WACO, Tex. (AP) — Officers Sam Aday and C. M. Watson were rather startled when they investigated an upside down car at an intersection. A woman crawled out and began pointing her finger at them.

"I was driving the car," she said indignantly. "This is my automobile, and it is my perogative to turn it over where and when I pleased."

She was jailed on a charge of drunkenness.

Jet Bomber Sets Round Trip Record

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Failing to set a Los Angeles-to-New York speed record, a twin-engine Navy jet bomber turned around and flew back to Los Angeles to establish a new round-trip record of 9 hours 35 minutes 48 seconds, and an east-to-west record of 5 hours 14 minutes 57.80 seconds.

Piloting the Douglas Skyraider was Cmdr. Dale W. Cox Jr., Spirit Lake, Idaho. His crew was Lt. Russell Baum, the copilot, Baltimore, and Marine T. Sgt. Robert L. Butts, Mayville, N.Y.

The bomber left Los Angeles at 9:11 a.m. and was in New York 3 hours 59 minutes 14.80 seconds later. The best time, west-to-east is 3 hours 44 minutes 53.88 seconds set March 9, 1955, by Air Force Lt. Col. Robert Scott in an F84F Thunderstreak.

The former round-trip record was 11 hours, 18 minutes, 27 seconds, made May 21, 1955, by Air National Guard Capt. John M. Conroy in an F86A Sabre Jet. The old east-to-west record of 5 hours 24 minutes 26.64 seconds also was set by Conroy.

Headwinds ruined Cmdr. Cox's hopes of besting the west-to-east record, but at Floyd Bennett Field he and his crew ate sandwiches and sipped milk while crewmen loaded 5,000 gallons of fuel for the return trip.

Then, with box lunches of fried chicken under their arms, they climbed aboard for the return. Twenty minutes after arriving in New York, the Skyraider was on its way back to Los Angeles.

Lt. Baum said the Skyraider averaged 620 m.p.h. on the eastern flight, but only 447 m.p.h. on the return. Top speed on the flight was 740 m.p.h., he said, and 140 m.p.h. headwinds were encountered westbound from New York to Mansfield, Ohio. The bomber flew at about 34,000 feet.

Youth Gives Reasons And Police Give Traffic Violations

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — One traffic light pole, one electric light pole, one mailbox, a set of stone steps, a store front (on three occasions), two parked cars — all were knocked down or otherwise displaced by 18-year-old Lovey Berger.

He gave police this formula: a spat with his girl, remorse, a bottle of wine, a half-gallon of beer, a pint of whisky and a 1947 automobile.

Police made another reckoning: drunken triving, hit and run, assault and battery, reckless driving, and driving without a license.

Committee Refuses General's Pay Raise

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Assemblyman Thomas M. Reese, a combat rifleman in Europe in World War II, objected when a bill came before the Assembly Ways and Means Committee to increase the salary of Maj. Gen. Earle M. Jones, state adjutant general.

Former Pfc. Reese said the proposal to increase Jones' National Guard pay from $15,544 to $17,244 a year "is out of line with the duties he has."

The committee refused to approve the bill.

NEW YORK (AP) — Two New Yorkers are seeing through the eyes of a baby who died last Friday.

The infant, Philip J. Horton Jr., died of an incurable spinal condition at Riverhead, N.Y. He was 34 days old.

The parents, who reside in Cutchogue, N. Y., were determined that their dead son should benefit the sightless. Corneal transplants must be used within 48 hours after death.

When no means were found to get their child's corneas to New York in a hurry, Mr. and Mrs. Horton drove the 75 miles by car to the Eye Bank for Sight Restoration in Manhattan.

The eye bank announced the successful corneal transplants yesterday, but did not disclose the names of those who received them.

Marilyn Monroe Won't Deny or Confirm Pregnancy Report

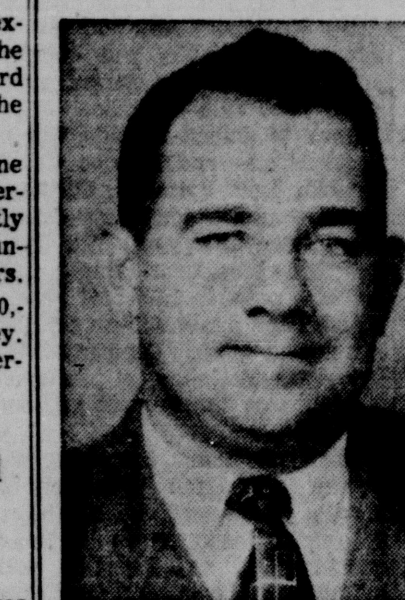

NEW YORK (AP) — Marilyn Monroe has refused to confirm or deny reports she is expecting a child. She says she considers that part of her life a private matter.

A newspaper story out of Hollywood said the blonde actress had turned down the role of Grushenka in "The Brothers Karamazov" because she is expecting a baby.

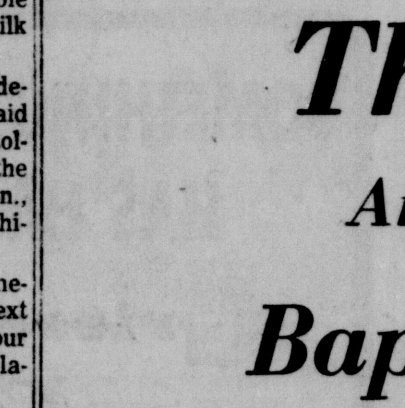

Representatives of Miss Monroe said she "is available for work if the proper vehicle comes along" and quoted her as saying she still would like to play the role of Grushenka.

The actress and her husband, playwright Arthur Miller, have been confined to their Manhattan home with virus. Through a spokesman yesterday, Miss Monroe said of the report she is pregnant: "I have nothing to say at this time. I'm sure that everyone will agree that some things are private matters. I just feel that this is one of them."

He and Logan Hit Homers

Covington's Grim Reference To Left Field Gets Results

Johnnie Logan, star Braves shortstop, may have been thinking of John Wesley Covington the other day when he suggested that Milwaukee's National League pennant chances would brighten considerably "if the guys in left field" would improve their batting averages.

On the other hand, Logan and Manager Fred Haney also may be putting the old squeeze play on Bobby Thomson, so the former New York Giant will start worrying about his job.

Wes Covington, as a rookie in 1956, appeared mainly in pinch-hit roles but played 35 games in the outfield. Yesterday he socked three homers. So did Logan. Each drove in five runs as the Braves overpowered the Chicago White Sox 10-7.

In other exhibitions, the New York Giants defeated the Baltimore Orioles 2-1; the St. Louis Cardinals ended a four-game losing streak at the expense of the New York Yankees 9-2; the Chicago Cubs edged the Cleveland Indians 5-4; the Brooklyn Dodgers rallied to turn back the Kansas City A's 6-3; the Detroit Tigers whipped the Washington Senators 9-2; and the Cincinnati Redlegs had their second big day in a row, tumbling the Philadelphia Phillies 13-10.

The Redlegs, who drubbed the Yankees 20-6 Wednesday with 25 hits, collected 22 against the Phils, including a homer by Hal Bevan, Ted Ksianski, Roy Smalley, John Kennedy and Joe Lonett homered for the Phils.

Herm Wehmeier, Larry Jackson and Hoyt Wilhelm limited the Yankees to five hits, while the Cards scored six unearned runs on three errors.

A triple by Eddie Bressoud with a mate aboard, and a sacrifice fly broke up a scoreless game in the seventh between the Giants and Orioles.

Homers accounted for all five Cub runs against Cleveland. Ernie Banks drove in three runs with two round-trippers, and Gene Baker hit a two-run homer. Al Smith and Sam Mele homered for Cleveland.

Charlie Neal and Don Zimmer each hit a two-run homer in the seventh to wipe out a 3-0 Athletic lead and the Dodgers added two more in the eighth.

Boxer Faces Prison Term For Fight Fix

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Art Aragon's colorful boxing career was apparently ended today as he faced a prison term of one to five years for trying to fix a fight.

His attorneys said they would appeal the decision.

The heavy blow to Aragon's hopes was delivered by Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker, who rejected a defense plea for a new trial and an official recommendation for probation.

"I have here a man who has attained an enviable reputation in the boxing world," said Judge Walker, fixing a stern gaze on the 29-year-old fighter. "Of all persons, he should be a clean sportsman and a representative of a clear sport—or one who should be a clean. Crimes of this nature are not small crimes."

Aaragon, a hard-hitting crowd pleaser was found guilty a month ago of offering Dick Goldstein $500 to take a fourth-round knockout in a bout scheduled for last Dec. 18 in San Antonio, Tex. The fight was called off when Aragon turned up ill.

The judge said that he was rejecting a recommendation that Aragon be placed on probation because the fighter gave no indication that he realized he had committed a crime.

The former third-ranking welterweight went openly during the trial, but showed no emotion as Judge Walker pronounced sentence. Aragon is married and the father of three children.

Berrios is favored in first round bout of featherweights.

NEW YORK (AP)—Cocky Miguel Berrios, pits his aggressive style against the smooth boxing of Brooklyn's clever Carmelo Costa tonight in the first round of the featherweight elimination tournament.

The two year old, 5-2 Puerto Rican is the 7-5 choice to win the radio-television (NBC 9 p.m. CST) 12-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

After this opener, the winner will take on Nigeria's Hogan Bassey, British Empire 126-pound titlist, in the semifinal. The semifinal victor then will face France's Cherif Hamia, the European king, for the title vacated by retired Sandy Saddier.

Berrios' record is 20-7, including three kayos.

Costa, 22, 5-4½, and one of the smartest boxers in the division, earned his reputation in 1955 with an unbeaten year. He losing in 1956, winning two and slumped to Hamia, Ike Chestnut and Texas' Paul Jorgensen. He beat the Texan easily in a return.

Indians Ceded Leading Spot In Track Meet

COLUMBIA (AP)—Most track coaches of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Assn. are content to yield the top spot to Southeast State in the annual indoor track meet here Saturday night.

The Cape Girardeau Indians won both the indoor and outdoor titles last season. They have been installed as favorites because back on the Indian squad are athletes who accounted for 28 points in the 1956 outdoor meet.

Among them are Jim Wigger, first in the mile; Arlen Powell, first in the broad jump and second in the 60-yard dash and Rev Miller, first in the two mile.

Second place in the 1956 meet was taken by Southwest State, but back on its roster are only producers of 16½ points.

Central Missouri State, which placed third, is described by Coach Hal Yinger as "not as good as last year."

Kenneth Gardner, whose North-east Missouri State Teachers placed fourth in the indoor last spring, has 13 letterman back, but they haven't had much chance for workouts because of the weather.

"I think we'll be in the upper bracket," he said, "but we won't win it."

To him, he said, it looks like the Indians again, with a good nudge from the Warrensburg Mustangs.

Cast in the unknown roles are Northwest State of Maryville, which will be back with gatherers of 20 points, and the Rolla School of Mines, coming with returnees who collected only 13 points last year.

Threats to records are hurdler George Simpson, and broad jumper Gene Frost of Southwest State; Denzil Caldwell, a high jumper, and Robert James, a hurdler, both of Northwest State; miler Jim Wigger of Southeast State and Bob Eshbaugh, a quarter-miler from Rolla.

Eshbaugh will be seeking his third straight 440-yard dash championship in the conference.

Baseball Leaders To Hold Session On Future Policy

BELLEAIR, Fla. (AP)—Baseball's executive clan, voicing mixed emotions over pending Congressional inquiry into whether they are sportsmen or businessmen, will meet in a closed-door, special session with Commissioner Ford Frick today to draft future policy.

While no announcement of what takes place at the meeting is expected, it was learned that organized baseball will set up a three-man committee to meet with congressional leaders to discuss what baseball must do—or stop doing—to remain free from anti-trust legislation.

Three bills now are pending in Washington as outgrowth of the recent Supreme Court ruling which declared professional football a business. Baseball, twice previously declared a "sport" and not subject to monopoly laws, now is under study by the lawmakers.

Two of the bills introduced in Congress would define baseball as a business and within reach of anti-trust laws. The third would make baseball, pro football and basketball, and boxing exempt from such statutes.

Frick, announcing that the meeting was called to discuss the situation and hear individual views on the matter, took a definite plan of defense before the owners, but declined to comment on it.

Texas, Iowa Teams Meet in AAU Finals

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Wayland College of Texas will face Iowa Wesleyan tonight in the finals of the National AAU women's basketball tournament.

Iowa Wesleyan provided the change from last year's cast by upsetting Nashville, Tenn., 44-39 last night. Nashville was runner-up to Wayland in the 1956 finals.

Wayland had to mind it's business last night to defeat Kansas City Midland, 48-44, and some observers predicted Iowa Wesleyan might break the Texans' three-year hold on the title.

Kansas City Midland and Nashville will play for third place. Jackson, Miss., won the consolation championship last night, whipping St. Joseph Platt 60-29.

McDERMOTT FALLS OUT—Kansas City Athletic pitcher Mickey McDermott juggled ball, then fell outside third base line trying to field Milwaukee Brave Jim Pendleton's bunt in first inning of exhibition game at Bradenton, Fla. Catcher Hal Smith goes for ball. Bunt was good. (AP Wirephoto)

'Fair Play Code' For Pro Sports Faces Objection

WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposed "fair play code" for major league baseball and football today faced an objection that it could breed "socialized sports."

Rep. Hillings (R-Calif.), who voiced the objection said he thought organized sports would be subject to less government regulation if they all were placed under federal antitrust laws rather than under a legislated code of conduct.

Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) said he was drafting such a code after conferring with Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League.

Keating offered this approach as a compromise in the controversy among some members of Congress over whether sports-for-pay should be legally declared big business or exempted from antitrust jurisdiction.

Keating said he did not believe sports constituted the kind of business Congress expected to regulate when it enacted the Sherman and Clayton Acts many years ago. But he said there was a need for a set of principles, with enforcement provisions.

The Supreme Court ruled last month that pro football falls within the scope of antitrust statutes. That decision, however, did not affect its previous judgment that baseball is exempt from the same laws.

Also back again will be the 1955 state champion, Company "B" Ordnance Battalion of Jefferson City. It won the Central Missouri area title.

The other teams competing will be the 180th Bomb Squadron, St. Joseph, winner of the northwest area title; Headquarters and Headquarters Co., 2nd Battalion, 18th Infantry, St. Louis, northeast area winner, and Headquarters Co., 140th Infantry, Cape Girardeau.

Dartmouth celebrates its 100th season in varsity crew during 1957.

Players on the Democrat seventh grade team include Jim Collins, Jim Wilson, Richard Ashley, Ronnie Mulberry, Albert Woolery, Floyd Self, Sandy Sheridan and Jimmy Powers.

The eighth grade Democrat team is composed of Gary Stout, Larry Lueck, Jim Miller, Bob Barnes, Kenny Holman, Jim Watson, Dick Wells and Francis Self.

Swander Does His Best Work Under Strain

NEW YORK (AP)—When the pressure is toughest give the ball to Bob Swander of Memphis State and Yorktown, Ind. Three times this season he has won games with last-second points.

Last night he scored a field goal with less than a second left to give Memphis State an 80-76 overtime victory over St. Bonaventure in the semifinals of the National Invitation basketball tournament.

The victory put the "dark horse" Tigers in Saturday afternoon's TV final against second-seeded Bradley, which crushed Temple 94-66 in the other semi.

The valiant Bonnies had come from behind to tie the regulation game at 76-76 and go ahead in the overtime on Larry Weise's layup. Jack Butcher tied it at 78-78, then Memphis State went into a stall.

The Tigers called time out with 52 seconds to go. They continued to freeze the ball until only a few seconds were left. Then they shot and missed. The rebound came to Swander in sidcourt. He wrestled it away from a horde of Bonnies and flipped in the jump shot that won the game in dramatic fashion.

Bob Vanatta, Memphis coach, said: "It is nothing new for him to win games like that. He did it during the season against Marquette and Western Kentucky."

Vanatta attributed much of his team's shoving to Wilfong, who scored 29 points, grabbed 16 rebounds and made three assists.

The Bradley-Temple game was a letdown after the exciting first game. Temple stayed close at 37-33 until near the end of the first half. Then Bradley broke the game wide open the same as they did against Xavier of Ohio Tuesday.

Bradley made 35 of 64 shots from the field.

Barney Cable led Bradley with 25 points. Guy Rodgers made 23 for Temple.

Democrat Team Plays Tribune Saturday Night

The seventh grade Sedalia Democrat team will play the seventh grade team from the Columbia Tribune at Whittier School gym Saturday night at 7 o'clock.

At eight o'clock the Sedalia Democrat eighth and ninth grade team will play the First Christian Church team from Columbia, champions of a city league there.

The seventh grade game is a rematch of the teams which played between the halves of the Missouri-Colorado University basketball game on Feb. 2. In that contest the Tribune won 8-4.

Players on the Democrat seventh grade team include Jim Collins, Jim Wilson, Richard Ashley, Ronnie Mulberry, Albert Woolery, Floyd Self, Sandy Sheridan and Jimmy Powers.

The eighth grade Democrat team is composed of Gary Stout, Larry Lueck, Jim Miller, Bob Barnes, Kenny Holman, Jim Watson, Dick Wells and Francis Self.

Moberly Team Has Chance to Win Third Junior College Title

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP)—The Moberly, Mo., Greyhounds reached the semi-finals of the National Junior College basketball tournament last night and have a chance to win an unprecedented third championship.

The Greyhounds will meet Eastern Arizona at 9:15 (CST) tonight. San Angelo, Tex., will play Pueblo, Colo., at 7:30 in the other semi-final game.

Moberly defeated Tyler, Tex., another two-time champion, in the quarter-finals last night, 78-71. Eastern Arizona downed Brewton-Parker of Georgia 69-62.

Three consolation bracket games were booked for this afternoon. They were Hibbing, Minn., vs. Arkansas City, Kan.; Joliet, Ill., vs. Hutchinson; and Tyler vs. Brewton-Parker.

Yesterday's consolation scores included: Arkansas City 66, Murray (Okla.) Aggies 52; Hutchinson 60, Northeastern (Okla.) Aggies 57, overtime; Boise, Idaho 94, North Greenville (S. C.) 78.

Landis, a 23-year-old outfielder, has been the hitting sensation of the camp, leading the team with a .400 batting average through the first seven games. Howard, 25, is a right-handed pitcher who recently was released from the Army. In two three-inning outings, he limited the Yankees to two hits and the Brooklyn Dodgers to one while holding them scoreless.

Batley, 22, is a rugged, 200-pound catcher, who has impressed everybody with his hitting and throwing.

"If down the middle means anything," said Lopez "and they say it does, then we're as strong as anybody in the league. SELLERSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Quakertown state police say night watchman Clarence T. Bergey told them he fought temptation for 15 minutes in front of an open safe but lost the battle.

Police have charged Bergey with stealing $3,000 from Forrest Lodge of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He was night watchman there for eight years.

Bergey told police he remembered on his night off that he had left $10 at the lodge. When he drove to the club to get his money, he said he noticed the safe was unlocked. He said he stood in front of it for 15 minutes before giving in.

News Project Not Excuse For Baiting

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—"We don't bait our debating," says Martha Rountree, chairman of Press Conference (ABC-TV, Sunday evenings). "We are not trying to de-dignify our guests."

Thereby she takes a stand quite different from an increasing number of television interview programs.

"When you start arguing you don't get information. And from an important guest you want information. We are, actually, trying to do an information program."

In its effort to stay on top of the most current news Martha Rountree's Press Conference usually does not select its guests until a day or two before air time. Because of Miss Rountree's many friendships in Washington she says she never has been "stuck" in obtaining a guest who is familiar with an important news event.

"I don't think it's essential that we always should announce in advance who our guest should be," she said. "I'd rather be on top of the front page news than make the television listings inside the newspaper."

Martha Rountree's Press Conference has been a continually changing panel of 12 newsmen who interview an important guest. It is the only regular weekly interview program which has flown its staff abroad to interview prominent European statesmen when important news was breaking there.

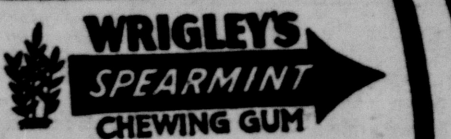

Miss Rountree, by the way, is developing another new TV program tentatively titled New Faces, which will introduce individuals new to the national scene.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Disney Has New Features For His Park

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—That restless creator, Walt Disney, isn't resting on his laurels at Disneyland. He has millions of dollars' worth of new features for the fabulous park on his drawing boards.

Walt gave me a preview of his ambitious plans at his Burbank studios. He showed models and sketches of such features as Liberty Square, reproductions of the places and events that cradled the Republic ("I'm trying to interest big companies to sponsor it, because I want the attraction to be free").

Thomas Edison Place, showing how American living has progressed because of the great inventor's spurring of science. . . . A reproduction of New Orleans' French Quarter, including a fantastic haunted house complete with ghosts, sliding panels, etc. ("I'm told I'm not supposed to scare the public, but shucks, people like to be scared").

An 1812 sailing vessel to ply the rivers of America, along with the paddlewheeler Mark Twain. . . . A 300-foot painting of the grand canyon to be viewed from the Disneyland railroad. . . . Big projects in Tomorrowland, including protozoa ride that would take patrons into a drop of water as seen through a microscope, another that would reproduce the universe as viewed by telescope ("There's a great urgency today to interest young people in science as a profession").

Disneyland already is a vastly successful enterprise. So the wonder is, why add to success? I asked Disney what would happen if he left the park as is.

"You sound like my bankers," he laughed.

But he added seriously: "My idea when I built the place was that it wouldn't be a static affair, but would give us a chance to be constantly creative. That's the fun in something like this: having the chance to make it grow."

There's another reason. The percentage of local visitors is high. The park must count heavily on the repeat trade.

"I don't want anyone to say they're not going back to Disneyland because they've seen everything," Disney remarked.

Army Sets Execution Date For Soldier

FT. LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—The Army has set April 3 for the execution of Ernest L. Ransom, 26-year-old Jackson, N. C., soldier convicted of slaying a Korean guard and raping a 14-year-old Korean girl while he was stationed in Korea in 1953.

Ft. Leavenworth's information office said Ransom will be hanged at its disciplinary barracks, where he has been held during review of the case by Army legal authorities and the White House. He was convicted and sentenced by a court-martial in Korea.

Ransom is a Negro, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ransom of Garysburg, N. C.

To Drop Federal Aid On Polio Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration says it does not seek to extend the federal program of aid for Salk polio vaccinations beyond its July 1 expiration date.

Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney said that the Public Health Service would restrict its activities to testing and licensing vaccine after that date.

Burney told a House Government Operations subcommittee yesterday that the federal program, set up by Congress in August 1955, "had proved its point and there is no need at the present time to ask for an extension." The law provided funds for Salk shots for children and pregnant women.

More Wet Weather

By The Associated Press

More wet weather was indicated today in broad areas in the eastern half of the country and in the Northwest.

A low-pressure system over the southeastern area produced precipitation from eastern Kansas and southern Iowa southward into Florida during the night.

Thunderstorms in Florida brought the heaviest falls of rain, with more than 1½ inches at Orlando and nearly an inch at Daytona Beach. Moderate to heavy falls also were reported in parts of Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina.

Drizzle sprayed the northern part of the wet belt, with rain mixed with snow in parts of Missouri and Iowa. The rain spread eastward as far as Virginia early this morning and was expected to extend from the middle Mississippi Valley eastward to the Middle Atlantic Coast states and southward through Tennessee to the South Atlantic Coast.

Lives Up to Name

PROTECTION, Kan. (AP)—Protection will try to round up all residents 40 and under on April 2 and give Salk polio vaccine to all those who haven't had it.

Mayor Harris B. Powell, whose brother, daughter and grandson have been polio victims, proclaimed the project.

"It is practically criminal negligence to fail to get polio protection," he said.

Nurses Association Meets at Lexington

The 10th District Missouri State Nurses Association met at Lexington, March 19, at the Anderson House and Lexington Battlefield. The Anderson House, bearing many scars of the fighting of the Civil War Days, remains sturdy after more than 100 years. Col. Anderson from Lexington, Ky., built his brick mansion in 1853. It rises two and a half stories from the basement, and a wide, beautiful stairway goes from the first to the third floor. All the woodwork is of native black walnut, fireplaces in each room have coal grates, and bullet holes are still in the ceilings and walls from the hand to hand fighting that took place inside the house. The house was turned into a hospital and changed hands three times in three days but was finally recovered. The Anderson House and battlefield occupy a 75-acre tract. After the group of registered nurses, including a number from Sedalia, toured the old home a dinner meeting was held at the Maiba Cafe.

Ike Seen in Accord With Prime Minister On Mideast Situation

OFF TO BERMUDA MEETING—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, right, talks with newsmen at a Washington airport to leaving for the meeting between President Eisenhower and Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in Bermuda. Dulles said "we are looking forward to this meeting with anticipation and hope for good results." (NEA Telephoto).

Anglo-U. S. Friendship Reaffirmed

Policies Aired During 4 Hours Of Conferences

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda, March 21—(P)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan today reached "a gratifying measure of agreement" in their talks on how to ease Middle East tension.

An official spokesman for the two leaders put it that way after the President and Prime Minister had discussed Middle East problems for about four hours in two meetings.

Peter Hope, British Foreign Office spokesman, said there still are many details to be worked out. But, he added, "the measure of agreement revealed today was great."

MIDEAST ISSUE FIRST

Eisenhower and Macmillan put the Middle East first in their first day of formal consultations aimed at bolstering British-American unity.

At the very outset of their four-day conference at the Mid-Ocean Club they rejected any thought of trying to fix the blame for past differences.

They pledged there would be no recriminations over split milk on either side and Eisenhower called British-American friendship the core of any free world alliance.

The President and Prime Minister met for two hours this morning and for about the same length of time this afternoon. Hope made his report of "a gratifying measure of agreement" on the Middle East after the second session. James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, nodded agreement.

DIFFERENCES SMALL

Hagerty then said, "I do think there has been a feeling of all participants that in many instances there are not as far apart as we thought we were."

He emphasized several times he and Hope did not mean there was complete agreement on all points of the discussion which they said concerned chiefly the Gaza Strip, the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal.

Hagerty said he did not think the President's statements to Macmillan involved any departure from U. S. policies on the Middle East as publicly stated in recent weeks by Secretary of State Dulles and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge at the United Nations.

The fire broke out shortly after the hall had been emptied of most of its thousands of daytime employees. Firemen controlled it in about two hours.

MAYOR USHERS STAFF

One of those still on hand was Mayor Richard J. Daley. He quietly ushered his personal staff from the building and later aided a cleaning woman, blinded by smoke to escape.

A man, believed to be a porter, was rescued from a third-floor ledge by firemen on ladders. The fire started in the City Council chambers on the second floor and spread to the third floor.

The building bounded by Randolph, LaSalle, Washington and Clark streets in the downtown section, is shared by offices of both city and Cook County agencies.

After getting a roaring start in the Council chambers on the second floor, the flames spread upward through outside windows and inner stairwells to the fourth and fifth floors. However, damage was not as extensive on the two upper floors.

West Plains Hospital Construction to Begin

Master of ceremonies will be Preacher Roe, former pitcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers. The first spade of earth will be turned by Lawrence Champieux of West Plains, who was the first president of the board of directors.

Construction of the 42-bed hospital is scheduled to begin Monday.

"CRADLE" LANDING—Warrant officers Owen M. Rushing, left, Memphis, Tenn., and Willie Baker, Mamou, La., look over the mattress-cushioned wooden cradle on which they safely landed their damaged Army helicopter at Ft. Riley, Kan. The wooden frames, normally used in the hangar during repair of aircraft, were hastily erected on the air field after the helicopter reported it had to make an emergency landing because of a damaged main landing gear. Confront Brewster With Discrepancies In Income Reports

Western Teamster Chief Denies Any 'Coverup' of Income, Hears Warning of 'Jail' From Senator

WASHINGTON, March 21—(P)—Senate rackets investigators today confronted Frank Brewster, big wheel in the Teamsters Union, with years of apparent disparities in the amount of income he reported to government agencies.

The chairman of the Teamsters Western Conference seemed to win when Robert F. Kennedy, counsel for the Senate committee investigating alleged abuses in labor and industry, mentioned the word "jail."

Brewster swore there was no "coverup" but said he couldn't explain what Kennedy said was a "disparity that appears to exist" in Brewster's income accountings to the Labor Department and those he made to the income tax collector.

NAMES BOOKKEEPER

He said the explaining would have to be done by Fred Verschuere Jr., a bookkeeper who made out the accountings and returns.

"If somebody goes to jail," Kennedy commented solemnly, "it isn't Fred Verschuere. It's Mr. Brewster."

"No one knows that better than I do," Brewster replied. "I'm just as blank on that as I can be."

The look at income figures was one major development as the committee tried to finish quizzing Brewster—so it can get ready for Dave Beck, the Teamsters president, next Tuesday.

Here are some of the other things that happened: Brewster denied testimony, given the committee by gambler James B. Elkins, that Brewster and others had tried to muscle in on Portland rackets.

CHARGED WITH THREAT

Specifically, Elkins had said that Brewster had told him that if he hurt "my boys" he would wind up "wading across Lake Washington in a pair of concrete boots."

"I never said anything like that in my life," Brewster protested to the committee today. "I never threaten people."

The committee subpoenaed in open session all Brewster's financial records for 1949 through 1956.

Brewster testified the Teamsters had secretly put up some $400,000 since mid-1955 in an attempt to prevent Pix, a Canadian trucking company with which they have a contract, from going to the wall. He said the union expects to get back all its money fairly soon and he's "kinda proud" of saving 160 jobs and the work that went into a contract he described as a model for all Canada.

After considerable prying by the committee, Brewster said that Seattle trucker R. J. Acheson, who helped reorganize the Canadian firm, could come out of the deal with all the stock the union got in the company.

Then there was the episode about a $3,115 check on the Teamsters, signed by Brewster on July 11, 1954. It was traced to car dealer Harry Apple in Los Angeles, to pay for an automobile that wound up in the possession of Mary James, friend of Teamsters organizer Terry McNulty.

Production of Giant C-132 Transport Cancelled by A. F.

WASHINGTON, March 21—(P)—The Air Force today officially cancelled its program for the production of what was to have been the biggest transport in the air, the C-132.

The announcement said that termination of the production at the Douglas Aircraft Co. plant at Tulsa, Okla., was decided because "of the relative priority of essential combat systems." This was explained to mean that the Air Force considered the building of what it had described as the "new giant of the airways" as less important than other projects.

The Air Force said that the transport mission scheduled for the huge C-132 will be carried out by using smaller but relatively new aircraft now under production and by "extending the life of our present transport fleet."

It said that the Tulsa plant is "of continuing importance" and that sufficient work will be made available to keep it in operation so as to maintain most of the workers now employed there.

Dag Contends Israel Should Quit El Auja To Gain Suez Rights

Discusses Mid-East With Egypt

Feels Parties Should Comply With Armistice

CAIRO, March 21 (P)—U.N. Secretary Dag Hammarskjöld is taking the line that Israel will have to withdraw from a little triangle in the Negeb Desert to establish legal right to send ships through the Suez Canal.

This was reported by informed diplomats as Hammarskjöld met Egyptian President Nasser tonight to explore the tangle of Middle East issues. They include such varied problems as the Gaza Strip, Suez and the Gulf of Aqaba that have become snarled in the same ball of twine.

Because one topic almost always leads to the others, they began their talks at Nasser's house without an agenda.

Before they met, Hammarskjöld talked with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi for three hours.

MEETS U. N. AIDES

In-between, and almost from the moment his plane set down here from New York early this morning, he held sessions with Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, U. N. Emergency Force commander; Dr. Ralph Bunche, U. N. under-secretary; Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, in charge of the U. N. clearance operations in the Suez Canal; and other aides.

The connection between the little triangle in the Negeb, the so-called El Auja demilitarized zone, and Israel's rights in the Suez Canal, is highly important to the informants said.

SEEKS NON-BELLIGERENCY

He has come here, it has been reported, with the hope of getting both sides to abandon their asserted belligerent rights. He has taken the position that if both parties fully comply with their 1949 armistice agreement a state of war no longer will exist.

Egypt has indicated she intends to continue to keep Israeli shipping out of her territorial waters because she considers herself still technically at war with Israel. This position could apply to the Gulf of Aqaba as well as the canal.

City as True Beneficiary

Indicts Three St. Joe Residents On Fraud in Bode Estate Case

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 21—(P)—A grand jury summoned by the state today indicted three St. Joseph residents in connection with the $2,569,435 George Bode Jr. estate, accusing them of conspiring to defraud the city.

They are Charles A. Peters, a real estate man; his wife, Mildred L. Peters, a niece of Bode's, and Kenneth Kurz, a Peters employee.

Boed died in May 1955, leaving all but $39 of his estate to St. Joseph for recreational purposes. His bequest has been contested by relatives and others who claim he named them beneficiaries in a later will.

Bode was a resident of St. Louis at the time of his death, but had lived here.

They are also accused by the indictment of attempting to obtaining "money or property by false pretenses," and calculating "to pervert and obstruct justice" by reconstruction of a will naming Peters as a principal beneficiary.

WILL PROBE ATTORNEYS

The "reconstructed will," their indictment reads, "was supported by the sworn affidavits of Mildred L. Peters, Charles A. Peters and Kenneth Kurz."

Transport Believed Crashed

Plane Missing Over Pacific With 67 Aboard

TOKYO, Friday, March 22—(P)—A U. S. Military Air Transport Service plane with 67 Americans aboard was reported missing and presumed down in the Pacific today on a flight from California.

The U. S. Air Force concentrated a search for the C97 and any possible survivors about 200 miles south-east of Tokyo.

This would be the seventh air disaster in the Far East in the past 28 days. In the first six, more than 80 persons were killed or are missing—among the dead Philippine President Ramon Magsaysay.

SEARCH UNDERWAY

Air Force officials said planes and ships were combing the area between the C97's last reported position and Tokyo's International Airport, where the plane had been scheduled to land about 12:45 a. m.

The search began in pre-dawn darkness, as soon as the plane was reported overdue. All Air Force planes flying other missions at the time were diverted to the area.

A Japanese coast guard ship already in the area was flashed an alert and immediately took up the search, the Air Force said.

More than a score of other planes were in the air in the early morning hours.

LEFT WAKE ISLAND

Far East Air Force headquarters here said the plane took off from Wake Island Thursday afternoon for Tokyo on the last leg of its flight from Travis Air Force Base near San Francisco, Calif.

The flight from Wake to Tokyo would have taken about 9½ hours. The plane was declared overdue at 2:15 a. m. Japan time.

In Washington, the Air Force said it would have exhausted its fuel, under normal flying conditions at 5:40 a. m.

Man Shoots Self While on 'Phone

KANSAS CITY, March 21—(P)—A 21-year-old man accidentally shot and critically wounded himself while talking on the telephone with a friend, who summoned help for the victim.

The victim, Darrell F. Kelley, suffered a chest wound just above the heart.

Tom Logan, with whom Kelley was talking, said Kelley excused himself from the telephone saying he wanted to get a cigarette.

"A minute later I heard this tremendous explosion and the telephone apparently fell off the table," Logan related.

"Then I heard him say: 'Tom, call a doctor, I'm shot.'"

Logan said Kelley apparently was cleaning a .22 caliber automatic pistol while talking on the phone and in putting down the receiver apparently discharged the weapon.

Kelley was taken to General Hospital where underwent surgery.

Named Abbot of Ozarks Roman Catholic Abbey

WEST PLAINS, Mo., March 21—(P)—The Rev. Bruno Payant today became the first abbot of the Roman Catholic Trappist abbey, first of its order in the Ozarks.

At 37, he is one of the youngest Trappist abbots in the world.

The title was conferred on him by Bishop Charles H. Helmsing of the Springfield-Cape Girardeau diocese, at St. Agnes Cathedral in Springfield.

Two of his brothers took part in the ceremony. They were the Rev. Remi J. Payant, St. Paul, Minn., who was deacon, and the Rev. Noel M. Payant, Godeffroy, N. Y., who was sub-deacon.

With several other monks, the new abbot came to this area in 1950 from the Melleray abbey at Dubuque, Iowa, to establish the Lady of the Assumption abbey, 40 miles west of here. It has 3,500 acres of land.

April 1 Deadline to Stand

Prison Guards to Defy Order to Disban Union

JEFFERSON CITY, March 21—(P)—Members of the Prison guards union here voted today to sit tight against an order to get out of the union by April 1 or give up their jobs.

Warden E. V. Nash, when notified of the union action, said "the April 1 deadline still stands."

Frank Burns, secretary-treasurer of the union, said a four-pronged action was taken in the meeting. The union voted to:

1. Continue union membership. 2. Press two suits now pending against Col. James D. Carter, director of corrections, involving overtime and leave time the union claims is due employees.

WILL MEET BLAIR

3. Authorize Burns and Joseph Ames, union business agent, to meet with Gov. James T. Blair and, 4. Authorize the union attorney, Fred M. Nelson of St. Louis, to pursue the legal aspects of the case.

The order for guards to sever their union relationships was issued by Carter and Nash Monday. Nash said it was based on an opinion by Atty. Gen. John M. Dalton. He ruled prison administrators could forbid custodial employees to be affiliated with an organized labor union.

Dalton said he relied on a Supreme Court decision in 1948 denying the right of St. Louis police to belong to a union.

DENIES 'STRIKE ISSUE'

Burns heatedly denied that any "strike issue" was involved. Members of the guard union are not allowed to strike under the union by-laws, he said.

"The director was quoted as saying he was fearful of what would happen in the event of a strike," Burns said. "This is sheerest nonsense and I'm sure the director knows it. Members of this union were informed when they organized that the union could not and would not resort to a strike under any circumstances."

"We've had this union for two and a half years and there has never been a strike nor a threat of a strike."

"The national union with which we are affiliated is in its 22nd year of existence through many states, including the city of St. Louis for the past 16 years, and during that 22 years it has never had a strike, a slowdown, or a work interruption of any kind."

The guards belong to Local 674

See Same Pig Output In Corn Belt States

WASHINGTON, March 21—(P)—The Agriculture Department predicted today that pig production in nine corn belt states will be about the same this spring as it was a year ago.

It estimated that 5,373,000 sows will farrow this spring compared with 5,362,000 a year ago.

But farmers in these states indicated in a recent survey that they plan to step up farrowing by 3 per cent in the June-August period.

Farrowing for this spring crop and the percentage change from a year ago, respectively, by states included: Illinois 930,000, the same, Iowa 1,701,000 the same, Missouri 523,000, up 2 per cent and Kansas 119,000, down 5 per cent.

Pettis County Is Up

Traffic Toll Drops In Eight County Area

Pettis County's traffic record and the record of the eight county area was marred by four deaths which occurred on the highways in this county by February. But the eight county area's record for the two months of the year is improving for the best over the two comparable months of 1956.

A drop in accidents, persons injured and property damage dropped for the months of February, and for the comparable two-month period the death rate dropped along with the other improvements.

In Pettis County for February four persons met death through accidents; 11 accidents were reported and investigated; seven persons were injured; and property damage was $8,275. The comparable monthly record of 1956 was 17 accidents, none killed, 12 injured, and property loss at $8,610.

The reports for the area are compiled from those of Capt. G. W. Pate, commander of Troop A, Lee's Summit, with six counties under his troop area — Benton, Henry, Johnson, Lafayette, Pettis and Saline and from those of Capt. Paul E. Corl, Troop F, Jefferson City, with two of the counties in his troop area — Cooper and Morgan.

Books Can Assist Parents In Recognizing Illnesses

Even healthy children get sick now and then, and when they do the Sedalia Public Library can help. Books at the library will help parents to recognize the various childhood ailments, provide advice on what steps to take, and furnish ideas for play during convalescence.

One of the most recent manuals is "When Your Child Is Ill," by Samuel Karelitz. Answers are given to the questions parents frequently ask about the main diseases to which children are subject. Here are the most up-to-date, authoritative findings of modern medicine on 81 infectious diseases of childhood, as well as on rheumatic fever, allergies, viruses, fever, the wonder drugs, immunization, and hygiene.

Another recent title — Marion Lowndes' "Caring for the Sick Child at Home" deals with the problem of the home care of the sick child.

Numerous manuals on child care include sections on the various childhood ailments. Some of the titles are "The Encyclopedia of Child Care and Guidance," "A Baby's First Year," "Healthy Babies," "Commonsense Book of Baby and Child Care," and "Feeding Your Baby and Child."

Books are also available — such as Cornelia Parker's "Your Child Can Be Happy in Bed" and Margery McMullin's "How to Help the Shut-in Child" — which give suggestions for activities that can be carried on by the shut-in youngster.

It Is Run to Save Lives

On Outskirts of Sao Paulo There Is a Farm of Death

SAO PAULO, Brazil, March 16 —On the outskirts of Sao Paulo, spread over 80 acres of green hills, is a farm of death.

Each year thousands of snakes and animals die on the Pinheiros Institute farm so that thousands of humans may live. The farm produces snake bite serum, desperately needed on the frontier where Brazilians are fighting jungles, developing the land. The institute is also the largest producer in Latin America of general antitoxins, vaccines and serums.

More than 10,000 snakes yearly roam the deep pits on the farm. Here they are milked of their venom and the complicated process for making anti-snake-bite serum begins.

"It is not just a laboratory problem," said Anibal Pereira, production director of the farm. "It involves thousands of miles of travel to get the snakes here. Then there are the men who capture the snakes."

Pereira said that deep in the Brazilian jungles and on the frontier plains, hundreds of men, armed with a rod and noose, are hunting snakes. They make little money for their labor but they are saving many lives.

"Once the snake is captured — whether it's the deadly coral crate to this farm."

Pereira, white - smoked and wearing horn-rimmed glasses, said the farm, 11 miles from Sao Paulo, produces 95 per cent of the anti-snake-bite serum used in Brazil.

He demonstrated the milking of a rattlesnake and a jararaca — another poisonous jungle snake. He went into the pit and pressed a hook-shaped rod on the snake's neck. The steady, angry clack of the rattle drowned out all other sounds as Pereira deftly lifted the rattlesnake by the neck. The four-foot snake, fighting to strike, suddenly found his two fangs over the rim of a small dish. The pressure of the rime on his venom sac forced out the deadly, milky venom into the dish.

Pereira, casually tossing the snake back into the pit, said:

"Now we take the serum and dilute it in a salt water solution. Then we inject it into the blood stream of horses."

Pereira, asked if he ever had been bitten, answered matter of factly, "Oh, yes, two or three times. But I just take a shot of serum. I have pretty bad headaches for awhile and then I'm okay."

He said no one had been killed by a snake on the farm since it was opened in 1928. And so far as he knows, no supplier has ever been killed by a snake he was trying to capture.

There are 800 horses on the farm. Four hundred of these will die each year and be replaced. At first, a mild dose of venom is injected into the horse. By the end of four months, if he still is alive, he can take a normally lethal dose without danger.

Blood is taken from the horse and mixed with anticoagulant. While the horse takes a month's vacation in the pastures, the blood is in cold storage. But it is constantly tested. After final filtering the blood is stored for three to six months to permit slow sedimentation for the removal of certain elements. Then it is bottled and the serum is ready.

Phoney Price Tags Fool Bargain-Hungry Shoppers

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Girls, we bargain hunters have got to look out for a new, slick racket.

This is a scheme called fictitious pre-ticketing that makes suckers out of enthusiastic money savers. A trick used by small-timers for years, it's now assuming larger proportions and fooling people right and left, according to officials at the Federal Trade Commission.

The main reason seems to be

The same industrial skills that produce modern and attractive packaging are now employed to dress up these phoney price tags, according to experts. They come in a rainbow of colors. Some are embossed on gold foil, others in silver and black. And even the original boxes have spurious prices conspicuously printed on them.

FTC officials are careful to point out, however, that most big-name manufacturers and the great majority of the nation's companies look down on this practice. Those that do not are doing damage, however. And they're breaking the law since this kind of pre-ticketing is not only unfair competition but a deception that the FTC has the authority to prevent.

Kreislers Celebrate 19th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Kreisler, Lincoln, celebrated their 19th wedding anniversary Sunday, March 3. Guests were Mrs. Everett Cole and Roy, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kreisler and Albert, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lackman, Norene and Ruth Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gerken, LaMonte, Mr. and Mrs. Rud Percy and family, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gerken, Mike and Claudia, Independence, Miss Lydia Mueller, of Kansas City.

that buyers fall for fancy, mass-produced labels. Here from FTC files is how a typical consumer got caught. See if it has ever happened to you.

"This is a real bargain," said the lady to herself while eyeing the wool comforter. Through the cellophane cover she could see the manufacturer's labeled price of $14.95. Then she looked at the store's placard offering the comforter for only $4.99 plus any other $5 purchase.

Quickly she calculated that she would be getting the comforter for a mere third of its regular price, and the other $5 could be spent for things she needed anyway. So she forked over the money and left the store in triumph, a victim of illegal pre-ticketing.

Here's how the retailer made a fast sale at her expense: He was offered the comforters by a manufacturer who provided him with flamboyantly printed "fliers" to be inserted under the cellophane envelopes protecting the comforters. The broad stripes of colored paper carried the conspicuous price of $19.95.

In this particular case the retailer thought this was carrying it too far, so he demanded a supply of more "honest" fliers showing the price to be a respectable $14.95. And all he actually paid for the comforter was $4.50.

As it turned out in this instance the FTC obtained a cease and desist order against the manufacturer enforceable by a $5,000-per-day offense fine for further violations.

"Normally we have been going after the manufacturer to get at the source of the trouble," says Sherman Hill, FTC projects attorney.

Recently the FTC has been making an intensive effort to stop harmful pre-ticketing and about a dozen big cases are in the works.

"We're investigating manufacturers who supply the retailer with price tags that are obviously higher than the expected price," emphasizes Hill. "We never bother with honest reductions."

One company now being checked by the FTC went so far as to send out promotion sheets to retailers with their pre-ticketing prices and resale prices, Hill reveals.

From perfume to furs to belts to slips to hosiery to watches, people are being baited by official-looking labels produced by the manufacturer.

"Most consumers won't give a second look to a retailer's price tag that has been marked down, but show 'em a snazzy manufacturer's label and they never seem to question its validity," explains an investigator.

Common Pleas Judge Defends His Reputation

WICHITA, Kan. — Judge John M. Stice of Wichita's Common Pleas Court, accused of conspiring in the operations of a burglary ring, says the charges stem from the political ambitions of Atty. Gen. John Anderson of Kansas.

"It is apparent that the Republican attorney general of Kansas has announced that he wants to run for governor of this state," Judge Stice declared. "He wants the hide of a little county judge who is a Democrat for campaign material. He has already commenced his press releases.

"If I was really guilty of these accusations, I would have resigned the day this story broke."

Anderson initiated disbarment proceedings against Stice Tuesday. The Kansas Supreme Court has given the judge until April 18 to answer the charges.

"As far as his accusations of politics are concerned, they are run-of-mill type hogwash," Anderson said after reading Stice's statement.

Freak Crash Takes Five Youths' Lives

MAHNOMEN, Minn. — A fatally-charged pool of water, fed by a broken high tension electric line, killed three youngsters who raced to a wrecked car containing the bodies of two crash victims early today.

Six more teen-agers in the wrecked car escaped alive by climbing to the top of the auto and leaping over the deadly water to dry ground.

The accident occurred on U.S. Highway 59 one mile north of this tiny county seat and about 240 miles northwest of Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Killed were: William E. Schultz, 28, the driver of the one car that was wrecked, and one of his passengers, Donald Haugen, 21, both of Winger, Minn.

Marvin Duncan Jr., 18, and Orville Rolf, 18, both of Fosston, Minn., who leaped from the first car passing by the scene in a fatal rescue try.

The six surviving witnesses were under sedatives for shock and minor injuries in Crookston hospitals, and a clear picture of the tragedy was not immediately available. From investigating highway patrolmen and other sources, however, this is apparently what happened:

The Schultz car containing seven passengers, en route home from a dance pavilion at nearby Bejou, Minn., sheared off a power pole and plunged into a water-filled ditch. Schultz apparently was killed by the crash. Haugen apparently was killed when he stepped out of the car into the water charged by the broken power line in it.

"I'm being shocked, somebody help me," a survivor quoted Haugen as saying.

The other six passengers stayed inside the car.

The car containing Duncan and Rolf drew up. The two youths, apparently unaware of the lethal current in the pool of water, raced into it to help. Both fell dead.

asked by the grand jury to investigate the ethics of some attorneys involved in the case during civil proceedings at St. Louis.

Evidence before it, the jury explained, "strongly suggests . . . that the named conspirators may have been aided to some extent by members of the legal profession who represented or advised them in civil proceedings."

DREW UP LATER WILL

Those proceedings, the jury said, sought "ultimate establishment of a will of George Bode Jr., purported to have been executed on July 24, 1948." This was the so-called later will. The contested will was drawn in 1945.

"Accordingly," the jury finding continues, "it is recommended that all civil proceedings here-tofore filed in St. Louis County, Mo., in connection with the estate . . . be reviewed by the advisory committee of the Missouri Bar Assn. with a view to determining if a violation of the canons of ethics of the legal profession has been committed."

Sees Social Security Payments 50 Per Cent Higher Than Present

WASHINGTON — The government expects that in five years 10 1/2 million persons will be receiving approximately nine billion dollars a year in Social Security benefits.

This would be an increase of about 50 per cent over present figures, the House Appropriations Committee was told in testimony made public today.

Robert M. Ball, deputy director of the Bureau of Old Age and Survivors Insurance, said the figures projected through 1961 compared with 1957 totals of 7,740,000 beneficiaries and six billion dollars in benefits.

The Social Security trust fund, from which payments are made, now has in it 2 1/2 billion dollars in contributions from employees and employers.

desert 19 miles long on the border between Egypt's Sinai and the Israeli Negev, is an example of Middle East controversy.

The armistice provided that it should be demilitarized because of its strategic position at the desert trails. But the Egyptians in the fall of 1955 charged the Israelis had occupied it. The Israelis said their forces were only police that were moved in to afford protection against augmented Egyptian troops which reportedly had taken up positions close to the border.

Rolla Contractor Nears Completion Of Private Lake

ROLLA, Mo., March 21 — A lake which will be one of the largest privately-owned bodies of water in Missouri is nearing completion, but the owner says his plans for using it are indefinite.

L. H. (Bill) Bray, a Rolla contractor, said creation of the lake of about 125 acres will fulfill a lifelong ambition. He said he expected to finish the work in about three more months.

An earthen dam 1,200 feet long and 65 feet high at its maximum point above ground level is about three-fourths complete. Bray is using his own earth moving equipment and estimated the cost of moving the 500,000 cubic yards of fill in the dam at about $100,000.

Impounded water will total about 1 1/2 billion gallons.

"I don't know whether I'll sell lots around the shoreline or what," Bray said. "But it will be a commercial operation of some sort. Definitely there will be fishing."

Would Permit Ag Dept. To Eradicate Damaging Plant Insects, Weeds

WASHINGTON, March 21 — A House agriculture subcommittee today approved legislation authorizing the Agriculture Department to eradicate fire ants, the soybean cyst nematode and weeds.

It would authorize the department to cooperate with states.

Fire ants, which entered this nation through the port of Mobile from Argentina some 30 years ago, have spread through 17 southern states. They are damaging to both livestock and crops, their stings sometimes hospitalize humans.

Nematodes are microscopic worms which feed on the roots of soybean plants and have caused damage in several states, including Missouri and Arkansas. The weed is a weed found in North Carolina.

Hearing on Milwaukee Railroad Plan to Cut Passenger Line Ends

OTTUMWA, Iowa, March 21 — A three-day hearing into the plan of the Milwaukee Railroad to discontinue the last remaining passenger service on its route between Savanna, Ill., and Kansas City, Mo., was concluded here today by the Iowa State Commerce Commission.

Commissioners John A. Tallman and Ray H. Thompson, who conducted the hearing said they had no idea when a ruling would be issued. The Iowa hearing involves only that portion of the route between the Iowa-Illinois line at Iowa points along the route protested the proposed discontinuance. When the railroad cited declining passenger volume and losses ranging up to $181,141 in 1956, the protesters replied that if the trains—Nos. 25 southbound and 26 northbound—weren't "so dirty, so cold and so late" business would pick up.

Under questioning, a railroad spokesman said coaches used on the train were built in 1934.

sized that delinquency is often not the fault of the juvenile, but of the parents.

The judge went on to say sternly that, although the court was termed Juvenile Court that was supposed to deal with juvenile delinquency, the cases brought before it were often cases of parental delinquency.

Judge Hoffman asked the prosecutor if he had any recommendations in the case. Prosecutor Harold Barrick stated that he had none but that, as he saw it, there were only two ways to handle the situation. He stated that the boys could be committed to the state training school or the case could be continued and if any of the boys stepped out of line they would immediately be sent to the training school.

The judge then asked the parents what they thought should be done, but none had a definite answer.

Judge Hoffman shook his head at that and decided to continue the hearing until March 30.
